TIME IS RUNNING OUT... PHASING OUT 2G

Cell phone carriers are phasing out 2G (2nd Generation) on their cellular towers with 3G/4G communication technology. 2G products are congesting communication networks and improved technology provides faster and more efficient communication between your alarm system and our central station. Although the deadline is 2015 many regions throughout the nation have already seen their 2G services shutdown.

Because of the possibility of limited performance in your system, we want to inform you now so you have time to upgrade your communicator to 3G/4G . Changing to a 3G/4G communicator will provide:

- No interruptions to your alarm service.
- Longer product service life and efficiency.
- New or improved personal options including web/remote access from your smart phone and other features.

If you want to know more about the transition or wish to speak to a consultant about upgrading your system please call our office at (707) 443-6366 or toll free (877) 443-6366

THINK YOUR HOME IS A FORTRESS? THINK AGAIN

A security system is one of the best ways to derail burglars from entering your home but the following tips will help to fortify your fortress, making it much harder for burglars to get in.

Stop Blabbing

Americans tend to tell everyone they're going on vacation, a weekend getaway or a business trip. Chances are you've told the person cutting your hair, standing next to you on the sidelines of your kid's soccer game, bagging your groceries, or post anything on social media. Thieves have informants everywhere.

Watch Your Back

It's common for homeowners to place yard signs and decals to the front of their homes warning that their home is protected by a security system. Adding those decals and signs to the rear flower beds, doors and windows might make a thief think twice. The number 1 way into a home is through the French or sliding doors in the back. Keep your system armed even when you are home especially overnight.

Don't Underestimate Daylight

Bright sunlight offers homeowners a warm sense of security. After all, daylight makes it easy to spot someone entering your home through a window or by busting down a door. Thieves are doing more and more day jobs because that is usually when homes are empty. Always set your alarm when you are away during the day.

Candid Camera

Thieves most often do not have time, or talent, to disable a surveillance system. One thing a thief does not want is surveillance of them rummaging through your home winding up in the law enforcement hands or one the evening news. Post surveillance signs in the front and back of your house.

It's the Dog's Bark...Not it's Bite

Don't waste your time or money buying and training big, ferocious-looking attack dogs. Little yappy dogs are a huge deterrent because they just don't stop barking and can be heard by neighbors or their owners. Those little barks will let owners and neighbors know something is up.

Your Kitchen is a Sanctuary

Kitchens are the absolute last place robbers go because there are too many places to look for valuables and they want to be in and out fast. Where is the first place they look? The master bedroom! That's usually where homeowners keep jewelry, smart phones and other electronics.

You're in Control

Remember the "little things" that will protect your home and valuables. Lock your doors and windows, don't let news papers pile up when you're on vacation and trim bushes so they don't become screens for thieves to hide behind.
